Hi,

I would like to draw attention to the fact that I live 9 miles outside of the 3rd largest city in Missouri on a state highway that has a fiber optic cable owned by ATTT running along that highway that is physically within 75 feet of my home and broadband internet is not available to me. All I have available is high speed wireless or satellite based Internet, all of which is highly expensive. There are no cable providers except satellite either. I am told the fiber optic is connecting cities. No one seems to know when it if high speed will ever be available. Just seems strange.
