Re: Developing and Implementing a National Spectrum Strategy for the United States, Docket No. NTIA-2023-0003

Dear Mr. Harris:

On June 21, 2023, Rachael Bender, Donna Epps, Adam Koeppe, Tamara Preiss, and I, on behalf of Verizon, met with you and your team about the National Telecommunications and Information Administration's (NTIA) ongoing work to craft a national spectrum strategy. During the meeting, we discussed the differences between exclusive use and spectrum sharing, our CBRS deployment, and opportunities for expanding fixed wireless access.

In particular, benefiting from our experience as one of the biggest users of CBRS spectrum, we talked about the challenges with low power restrictions in the band and why any future sharing framework should accommodate full power commercial wireless use. We also discussed the effect preemptibility has on our deployment and the need for reliable spectrum access in order to provide consistent, quality service to our customers.

We appreciate NTIA's efforts to develop a national spectrum strategy that balances the needs of commercial users. A robust spectrum pipeline for full power licensed spectrum is key to maintaining U.S. leadership in wireless.

Sincerely,
